ALFRED DAVIS KILLED

IN ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY ON ROBLIN'S HILL.

On Saturday evening, about six o'clock, on the Provincial highway, a short distance from Napanee, Alfred Davis was almost instantly killed in a collision with an auto. Davis, who is about 65 years of age, was coming to Napanee on his bicycle, which he invariably used in getting about. A Chevrolet car, driven by Milton Gordon ,of Demorestville, who is working on the highway, was going east and it is supposed that Davis tried to cross the road in front of the car The deceased man was struck and dragged a short distance, and died in a short time, probably from a fracture of the skull, received when his head struck the hard road. Medical aid was summoned, but nothing could be done for the injured man. Coroner Dr. C. M. Stratton was notified and the remains were taken to Martin & Sons' undertaking rooms. A jury was summoned and viewed the remains, after which the inquest was adjourned until Friday evening at 7 o'clock, when the proceedings will be continued at Fairview school house. Mr. Davis has lived alone for a number of years near the top of Roblin's Hill, and was well-known and esteemed. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon.

SEEN FROM THE SIDELINES

Much speculation has been rife as to the object of the sartorial splendor of the Golfers. Many passers-by have been puzzled when they see a staid and stately gentleman who habitually clothes himself in grey and black, and who never wears a tie of a more vivid hue than navy blue, start for the links wearing some weird creation of green and blue stripes, pink and yellow hose, shoes of several shades of yellow, and knickers of a pattern and shade that would make a race track tipster green with envy

Deep research into the matter has finally discovered the reason. As everyone knows, in baseball the spectators get quite a kick out of panning the performers. It is not unusual to see a bespectacled, mild mannered gentleman rise in the stands and demand vociferously that the umpire be done to death, as they say in the tabloids. At a football game one rather expects to see a large section of the stands suddenly rise en masse and give three lusty cheers and a tiger for the dear old alma mater. Golfers, as who have occasionally "fed to ponies" joined with thousands of others from the moment that the crowd, as one person, ejaculated, "They're off !" until the finish, in one long tumult of screams and entreaties to "Get on, Wessee B." Bull fighting fans, we understand, are prone to make the lives of the less daring picadors and toreadors miserable with their jeer and jibes, while every crowd at a boxing bout calls continuously for blood. We have no recollection of the crowd at a tennis tournament in Italy decided to get their money's worth vocally, and panned the referees unmercifully

In all these sports ,and many others, the hockey, lacrosse, soccer, etc., the crowds get a thrill out of the noise they make. But a golf gallery is surprisingly mild in its demeanour. At times a couple of thousand enthusiasts may be right on the heels of a tournament finalist as he putts for the match, and yet, while the shots are being made, everything ,excepting the haberdashery is quiet as the grave.

This is why golf is such a nerve wracking game for the expert. For the several dozen people suddenly draw their breath in the back of your neck, and everything ,excepting your swing your club, must be a most unpleasant sensation being such a tense silence a cough anywhere in a gallery placed, a whisper is like a fall of sheet metal.

It seems as though it might be better to have the opposition supporers counting the number of shots or holes you are down this, or up that, with four, Bingham. Would we not be spurred to far greater effort ? It seems to us that if some such system were practiced more, the noise in golf might eventually become vocal, rather than sartorial.

For those who agree with us, we recommend the game of "Goof Golf." In the contest, each member of a foursome is allowed to shout "Goof" several times or less, during the course of an eighteen hole match. If the opponent succeeds in the next opponent is about to drive over a long hazard, like our ninth, is selected, the results are apt to be surprising and gratifying.

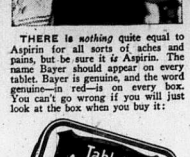
THERE is nothing quite equal to Aspirin for all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is Aspirin. The name Bayer should appear on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box when you buy it:



Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trade mark.

NEPTUNE IN MODERN GARB VIEWS QUEBEC

Now that Shakespearean productions are staged in plus fours, evening clothes and khaki there does not appear to be any solid objection against Father Neptune discarding his traditional garb of seaweed in favor of seaboots and sailor togs, and the Canadian National Railways photographer recently found the son of Saturn and Ops gracefully lounging in Quebec City as depicted above. It will be noted that the old gentleman retains trident and helm but has adopted a modern steering wheel in place of horse and dolphin. This particular effigy may be found on Mountain Hill and appears to replace one which up to 1850 had place of honor over the entrance to the "Old Neptune Inn" then a noted coffee house in St. Peter Street frequented by sea-faring men. Time was when carved wooden figures frequently marked industries and commercial establishments in Quebec and Montreal but only a scant few have withstood the advancing years.

THE CRUCIFIXION

Sunday June 17—Mark 15 :16-47.

Golden Text—But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us (Rom. 5 :8).

Some people say that the New Testament is all we need now, and that the Old Testament is interesting only as a curio, something quite obsolete, to be put on the shelf as an ancient work having no value for today. They forget that we could not understand the New Testament without the Old. Particularly is this true of the New Testament records of the crucifixion of Christ. Our interpretation and understanding of the crucifixion depend largely on the revelations of God made in the Old Testament. Indeed, it has been ascertained that there are twenty-five Old Testament prophecies that were fulfilled in twenty-four hours at the time of the crucifixion. And there are many Old Testament prophecies that have not been fulfilled, but that will yet be to the letter, as all of God's predictions are.

Back of the Garden of Eden, when God was pronouncing judgment on the serpent, and on the woman, and on the man, for the first sin of mankind, He said to Adam, "Cursed is the ground for thy sake ;.....thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee" (Gen. 3 :17, 18). Four thousand years later when the "Seed of the woman," Jesus Christ, was about to be bruised by the seed of the serpent, and was to bear the sins of mankind "in His own body on the tree" (1 Pet. 2 :24), His enemies "platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head." Is it not significant that one of the results of the sin of "the first man Adam" was pressed down upon the brow of "the last Adam" when He was to be crucified ? This was in order that, "as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" (I. Cor. 15 :22).

Mockingly the Jews, crucifying their Messiah, unconsciously spoke more than one truth that day. They saluted Him, "Hail, King of the Jews!" He was the King of the Jews and He is ; and He is coming again to take the throne of David and reign over the Jews and over the whole earth Then shall the Old Testament prophecy be fulfilled that "they shall look upon Me whom they have pierced and they shall mourn for Him, as one mourneth for his only son" (Zech. 12 :10.)

Another unconscious truth uttered that day by the enemies saved others ; Himself He cannot of Christ was in the words : "He save." Because He was saving others and in order to save others He could not save Himself. If He had saved Himself all men, from Adam down would have been lost.

Other Old Testament scriptures fulfilled at this time were Psalm 22 and Isaiah 52, 53. The Psalm was written when death by crucifixion was unknown, it was a Roman form of execution, not Jewish. Yet its literal, physical details are described in that Psalm, a thousand years before the event, with amazing accuracy. "The proof of inspiration is irresistible."

Isaiah 52 :14 has the literal meaning : "So marred from the form of man was His aspect that His appearance was not that of a son of man"—that is, as the Scofield Reference Bible points out, His appearance was not human, the effect of the sufferings described in the Gospel accounts of the crucifixion. Have we realized the unthinkable indignities, outrages and sufferings to which the Lord of glory voluntarily submitted Himself ?

The parting of His garments and the casting of los upon them, were a fulfillment of the prophecy in Psalm 22 :18.

Being crucified with two thieves fulfilled Isaiah 53 :22. Those two thieves represent all mankind in two classes : The one accepting by faith Christ as his Saviour, the other rejecting the salvation that was right at hand.

One died o sin—forever died !
Impenitent !
One died in sin—forever died !
The penitent !
One died for sin-He whom in love The Father sent !

The darkness that came over the whole land from the sixth hour until the ninth was an outward visible manifestation of the darkness in the life of the Sun of righteousness. It is unthinkably beyond our comprehension, but God's Word tells us what happened. Because Christ, Himself sinless, was made sin for us (2 Cor. 5:21). He was separated from the Father. And for the first time in eternity. God cannot look upon sin. So He had to turn away from His only begotten Son. Then came that dread "orphan cry from the criss," "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me ?" Can we think of the heart-break in the Godhead, Father, Son and Holy Spirit ? It has been noted this was the only time when Christ did not call God "Father." The relationship of Father and Son was broken. It was not to be wondered at that there was darkness over the whole land.

Yet even then Christ's life was not taken from Him. He had said : "No man taketh it from Me, but I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again" (John 10 :18). So we read that "Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost," or dismissed His spirit. He was in full strength and full possession of His human faculties as He did this.

Through His shed blood and death "the way into the holiest" was opened. God signified this by a miracle ! "The veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom." Now all men who would believe in the death and resurrection of Christ as their personal Saviour could have access to God, in the holiest place So we read : "Now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ" (Eph. 2 :13).

With the centurion let us all say : "Truly this man was the Son of God."

POLYGAMI STAYS IN TRIPOLI

Arabs Who Can Afford Them Have Four Wives.

Though polygamy is no longer good form in Turkey, it survives in the fatpots of Mohammedanism. The Italian Government has not imposed Mustapha Kemal Pasha's regime of monogamy on the Moslem residents of Tripolitania, and those Arabs who can afford them have four wives.

The troglodytic or cave dwelling Arab community at Garian in Tripolitania has a very effective way of inculating the proper spirit of humility in those plural wives. When a Garian maiden weds she does not immediately take up her abode with her husband. Instead, she crawls into a small cave leading off of a larger cave, which constitutes a chamber in the home of her parents. Not a ray of light penetrates this dark recess, and very little air seeps through. The recess is closed and there the bride fasts in solitude and silence for seven days. When she emerges she is presumably ready to become a dutiful and obedient wife.

The Rocky Mountain lakes fishing season was opened recently with a catch of a thirty-two pound lake trout by George Andrews of Banff, in Lake Minnewanka. A number of others of not such great weight were caught by guests of the Banff Springs Hotel.

The month of April was the most successful so far this year from the standpoint of families settled, according to a statement issued by the Canada Colonization Association. During the month 81 families were settled throughout the Dominion on 19,249 acres of land, bringing the total of settlements from the first of the year up to 224 on 46,207 acres.

There are in Alberta today 77,192 farmers who have 834,324 horses in use and 10,225 tractors. In Saskatchewan records show 116,762 farmers with 1,190,566 horses and 24,367 tractors. Manitoba has 51,200 farmers with 356,480 horses and 10,832 tractors. The survey would indicate that while the horse is yet far from being a back number on Western Canadian farms, the day of the tractor has definitely arrived.

Miss Jean Cameron, who came to her parents from England at the age of four, at ten commenced trapping in the district of her father's homestead. Today at the age of 21, she finds it quite a lucrative and congenial pursuit, and quite superior to any occupation which would keep her in the city. She follows a trap line within a ten mile radius of her house and her catch includes coyote, lynx, weasel and fox.

A record passage by a freighter and one that has only been expected of a passenger ship was recently accomplished when the Canadian Pacific Car and Foundry Company's barge Beaverburn docked at the Surrey Commercial Docks, London, nine days after leaving Montreal. The trip was the first out of Montreal of one of the new "Beaver" vessels and this record will be clipped by from twelve to fifteen hours now that the Beaverburn and vessels of her class are routed via the Straits of Belle Isle.

Seed growing is one of the latest industries of Vancouver Island of steadily increasing importance. Vancouver Island sweet pea seed sells on the English market from three to four shillings per pound more than the California seed. The largest sweet pea seed farm is at Duncan, which produces yearly about two tons. From 15 to 20 women are employed each year to pick, clean and pack the seed, the excellence and high quality of which is becoming world-famous.

All the sport of fishing with a minimum of destruction of fish was realized recently when a party of four members of the Izaak Walton League of American enjoyed a fortnight's salmon fishing on the Cains River, New Brunswick. The party took 150 salmon and returned them all to the water except twelve. Cains fish ranged from 25 pounds to an average of fifteen lbs and were taken with barbless hooks and streamer flies. Very fine sport was enjoyed but the fish were in no way injured, when returned to their native stream.

Quebec, Quebec. — The mineral production of the Province of Quebec for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, will be well in excess of $30,000,000 if the activity continues, according to a statement from the Provincial Department of Mines, just issued.

Saint John.—The Maritime Provinces can find a good market in South and West Africa for their manufactured and natural products, according to D. J. S. Tyrer, who recently returned from there. A vast trade, he claimed, could be worked up in salt fish.

Vernon.—For the first time in the history of bee-keeping in British Columbia one bee-keeper in the Okanagan Valley has exported a full carload of honey from his own hives. His 250 colonies gave him an average of 175 pounds of honey per colony.

Ottawa.—A survey will be made this year for a Canadian air mail route between Montreal and Winnipeg. This will consist of determining the best routes and locating landing fields. Recent announcement of four air mail contracts between points in Eastern Canada forecast more extensive operations along this line at an early date.

Midland, Ont.—For the first time in the history of this progressive town, a through Canadian Pacific train left here early in May for Toronto, and the first C. P. R. through train arrived from Toronto later in the day. A bottle of champagne was broken across the fender of the C. P. R. locomotive as it pulled out of Midland.

Ski-ing in July and August will be a prominent feature of the combined winter and summer camp to be operated in the Canadian Rockies under the shadow of Mount Assiniboine by Marquis N. degli Albizzi. The winter sport is made possible by the fact of a huge glacier that runs down the slopes of the mountain. Summer sports of variety will also be possible at the camp, which is one of the beauty spots of that part of the Rockies traversed by the Canadian Pacific.

Toronto.—Premier G. H. Ferguson announces that the Government has signed a contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the supplying of two additional cars to be used as "travelling schools" in the outlying districts of the province. The cars will be equipped in Winnipeg and both will run out of Fort William, operating between that city and Superior Junction. At present two cars are in operation, both in Northern Ontario. Not only children of trappers and railway workers, etc., receive instructions in these travelling schools but night classes are arranged for adults.

WASHED AND DIRTY EGGS A MENACE

The elimination of washed and dirty eggs would mean a saving of thousands of dollars annually to the egg producers of Canada. This is the opinion expressed by officers of the Canadian Produce Association, and the Co-operative Marketing Association in Eastern Canada

At this season the average is as high as 3 dozen soiled eggs to a case, which means a loss on each dozen in the case of from 1½ to 2 cents. This covers only the dirty eggs, those that have been washed are a greater menace to the egg trade. The loss from washed eggs can only be determined when eggs are removed from storage.

One prominent authority says, "we have occasionally recandled eggs out of storage in which a large proportion of eggs showed black rot, this of all probability resulting from washing the eggs. If only one or two shippers washed their dirty eggs and these were placed in cold storage, they could do untold harm to the reputation of our eggs. This at once reacts on the producer in the form of lower average prices."

As a general rule 'clean nests and clean houses mean clean eggs.' After taking all possible precautions if dirty eggs are still found they should be used for home cooking.

Until a few years' ago, very little attention was paid to the production of eggs in Ireland. The hens were not properly housed and little or no provision was made in the way of clean nests, with the result that all Irish eggs were stained and dirty. During the past two or three years this condition has been changed entirely Clean houses and clean nests have been provided, and the Irish eggs are commanding practically top prices on the English market.

Any temporary advantage in price which the individual producer may get by removing dirt from eggs by washing is more than offset by the bad effect such eggs have on markets as a whole. Individual producers should realize that they are part of a hundred million dollar industry, and that Canada's reputation as an egg exporter depends in large measure upon the care exercised by the individual in the marketing of a high grade product.

Monument to Heroic War Nurse

Mount Edith Cavell, in Jasper National Park, which will be visited by Canadian Weekly Newspaper editors and their wives after their Edmonton convention is one of the most strikingly beautiful peaks within easy reach of Jasper Park Lodge, and it is easily reached by means of the Cavell motor highway, which, after skirting the scenic golf course for which Jasper Park is now world-famous, climbs from the Athabasca Valley to the very foot of the Glacier of the Angels. Mount Cavell was named in honor of Britain's heroic war nurse, and a visit to Jasper National Park Lodge, and if it is easily reached by Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, University of Illinois, which was contributed to the Chicago Daily News.

"When Simon Garvey died—that was a good many years ago—he left a considerable sum of money to put up a monument to his memory. It was an imposing structure, as monuments went in our community, of sandstone and attracted attention.

"I saw it a few weeks ago when I visited the old cemetery. Time has ravished it. Rain and hail and frost have eaten into it, and the foundations, none too firm at the beginning, are gradually crumblin. Efforts are now afoot to let it be a work, and Simon Garvey's name will have been forgotten.

"Every normal human being cherishes the thought that he will do something during his lifetime that will cause him to be remembered.

"Our friends have the same feeling about us, and it is that feeling which fills cemeteries with monuments to the dead.

"Some of the most beautiful and wonderful structures of the world were built in honour of individuals—the Taj Mahal in India, the pyramids in Egypt, and the tomb of Victor Emmanuel in Rome, and that most beautiful monument in our own country, the memorial to Lincoln at Washington.

"In modern times, at least, we have given much honor to the man who won distinction or gave his life in war. The tall shaft that rises high in the midst of Trafalgar Square keeps Nelson's achievements always before the minds of the busy Londoner. But these monuments, glorious as they are, seem insignificant and tawdry when compared with the monument which the Canadians have dedicated to a woman—Edith Cavell.

"It rises 10,000 feet and more, towering above the surrounding peaks, one of the most beautiful of the beautiful mountains in the Canadian Rockies, snow-covered even in mid-summer, its 'ghost Glacier' hanging like a nun's veil over its glorious head.

"One cannot keep his eyes off it. There are other beautiful mountains near by, but always one comes back to Edith Cavell. As long as the world it will stand; when the pyramids have crumbled into dust and the Taj Mahal is forgotten memory, it will still rear its snow-capped head to the heavens, the most glorious monument ever devised to the memory of a noble woman."

FRENCH PAPERS.

Week's Gazette de France Nearly 300 Years Old.

When the French heard that a newspaper published in 1554 had been found in the Ambrosian National Library, at Vienna they dusted off the records to show they could do better.

The old Gazette de France, long a weekly, would have been nearly three centuries old to-day, but the war stopped its publication. It was the first French newspaper, established in 1631 by Theophraste Renaudot, a physician who came here from Vendee, whose ancestors were emigrants enough to give a name to the small coin "gazetta," the price charged for them.

Louis XII and Cardinal Richelieu took an interest in this Saturday newspaper and it became a sort of official publication.

France, however, has two dozen other newspapers that are more than centenarians. The oldest of the living is Le Journal de Lodot, started 184 years ago. Paris has the Journal des Debats, founded in 1789, influential and at the top rank in the newspaper world.

The Knight of The Silver Star

I set her on her feet. She must have been less bruised than I, for she walked more easily than I did.

"Clinton!"

"Darla!"

We went on in silence, our hands clasped. The rest of the journey to the woodcutter's hut she helped me far more than I helped her. I should have fallen from sheer exhaustion and slept had she not been with me.

"Clinton, there is some one in the woods close to us," Darla whispered suddenly.

I was alert in a moment. Approaching danger aroused me as nothing else could.

There was a shout.

"Vasca!"

For one moment I hesitated. Then I answered, "O'Ryan!"

There was a crackling of the branches, and the Irishman stood in the path before us.

"You have been long."

"We are here," I answered.

"Why, man, that is not like your voice. What has happened?" And he caught hold of me. "Wet too. The boat was there."

"Yes, but we did not come the way we intended. Give me some wine. I am thoroughly done. A little rest and I shall be all right," I said.

"Rest must wait. We cannot stay here. Your highness is wet too." And O'Ryan offered her the flask.

"Must we start at once?"

"Yes, at once."

The wine did me good. I took a longer draft of it than would have been good for me at any other time. It drove the cold out, and the blood began to leap through my veins again.

In the saddle I felt a new man, and, with Darla between us, we began our journey.

The day dawned as we galloped onward. We did not talk. Neither Darla nor I had inclination to do so, and O'Ryan, I think, kept his eye upon both of us lest we should become exhausted and fall from our saddles.

The sun was hot as we began to climb the lower hills, and then O'Ryan called a halt.

"An hour's sleep for you both and then we will go on again. See, yonder is Yadasara; the sun catches the ramparts on the rock summit. I will watch while you sleep."

When O'Ryan succeeded in rousing me I found that Darla was sitting beside me looking almost herself again, though in a somewhat draggled condition.

"I said one hour. You have slept three," said O'Ryan. "I awoke the princess more easily."

"I am a new man," I said, rising.

"Her highness has told me how you came last night. Faith, it is a marvel that you are here now. Come with me."

I followed him. He pointed toward Yadasara.

A great cloud hung over the plain, and as I looked a flame shot up from the midst of the cloud and then another.

"Fire," I said.

"They are too busy to think of you this day. The revolution has commenced."

"Vasca was to be king today."

"Aye. His followers are probably wondering why he does not come to lead them."

"Is it time to mount? It would be hard to be captured now."

Darla's soft voice and her clinging arm recalled me to the present.

"It is time."

"In your country we will forget this."

"I shall never forget it," I answered. "You will be with me. How shall I ever forget?"

We mounted and sped onward again, and then I remembered another person in Brunsenland.

"O'Ryan, where is Bridget?"

"In Yadasara."

"You would not bring her?"

"She would have been unhappy away from the house by the walls."

The princess looked at me and was silent. But she never quite forgave O'Ryan. He had deserted a woman, she declared. She did not know how capable Bridget was of looking after herself.

So we rode on, and no one followed us. And the farther we went the more our spirits lightened.

It was far in the afternoon when we reached the spot where I had first entered Drusseniand, where O'Ryan had cried "Halt!" so stentoriously and where I had found that the legend of this country was true. I showed Darla the spot where I had fallen from the mountain pass, the straight black line, though it did not look so now, over which poor Mustapha had shot out to find a new country—not the one he had for years dreamed of, but a better one, I trust.

The road we were traveling ended almost abruptly. A rocky barrier was before us, into the foot of which the river rushed noisily. A narrow path went up around the side of the rock.

"The water rushes through the rock to somewhere. The path should lead us somewhere, too," said O'Ryan.

"We will try it," I said, dismounting.

I helped Darla from her horse and we began the ascent.

"I see no way out here," said O'Ryan, "and it's a noisy place to spend the night in."

"I see no way either," I answered. "There is one consolation if they come after us they will hardly follow us here."

So far as we could judge we were standing midway between where the water leaped from the rock to where it touched the ground below.

Darla had not spoken. Now she drew my attention to the fact that the water fell clear of the rock from which it sprang.

"May there not be a way behind it?" she suggested.

"I remember how close it sounded when I came into Drusseniand," said O'Ryan excitedly. "Your highness may be right."

"Were you mounted when you came?" I asked.

"No; on foot, but there were horses. We were led up a path, and then our eyes were bandaged. I remember it was a short journey after that."

"This must be the entrance to Drusseniand," said Darla.

"Faith, it's the way out we're after," O'Ryan returned.

Further search showed us a cavern which was hidden by the jutting rock. It turned and twisted for a few yards and then opened upon a narrow pathway which crossed the rock behind the falling water. I say a narrow path. So it was. I have traversed narrower, but with sheer rock on one side and falling water for a wall on the other any path would look too narrow for safety.

"This is the way, Clinton," said Darla.

There was a catch in her breath as she spoke. I did not wonder at it.

"The longer we think about it the harder it will become," said O'Ryan practically. "I'll lead the way. If I pitch over you must decide whether it is worth while to chance the crossing."

He was right. Looking at a difficulty never made it easier. He took his horse firmly by the bridle and started. Darla went next, and I followed. It was a perilous journey, more perilous by reason of the horses. But we accomplished it, and a short climb brought us out upon the path where Mustapha and I had commenced our journey to this land of legend.

"Is this your country, Clinton?" Darla whispered.

"No, my love. We have a long journey yet before us, but there are no dangers here. Those are past."

We mounted our horses and clattered along the road to Brayle.

It was strange entering the low door of the inn. The familiar scene made the time seem short since the first time I had entered it. A wood fire was crackling on the hearth, and round the table, drinking their thin wine, sat three men.

They rose as I entered, a scared look upon their faces.

"We thought you were dead—killed perhaps by that madman Mustapha," said the landlord.

"No; I am alive, you see, and hungry. Have you entertainment for three hungry travelers?"

"And Mustapha?" questioned one of his companions.

I recognized him.

"Ah, my friend, you do not know all the paths upon the mountains. The legend was true. Supper first, the tale afterward."

"Better leave the tale until tomorrow," said O'Ryan. "Faith, it's not only supper I want, but a bed."

There was bustle in the inn that night, but shortly I told them the tale before I went to bed.

"But the treasure?" said the landlord, with glistening eyes, as I finished.

He would not have understood had I told him of Darla, so I answered shortly as I rose from the fireside with a yawn:

"Treasure! There was no treasure!"

Did I not say when I commenced this history that I should hardly believe it myself had I not one incontestable proof of the truth of it always before me?

If I doubt, as indeed I almost do sometimes, I have only to look at my wife. How else would Darla be with me had I not passed through these adventures in Drusseniand?

Darla! My little wife! How well she fits her English home. Yet how strange it was to her at first. It took her long to learn that in England I was only a private gentleman, that she was only Mrs. Clinton Verrall, a person of some importance certainly but not a princess. She could not understand why my queen should think so little of such a brave knight as I was.

"IS THIS YOUR COUNTRY, CLINTON?" DARIA WHISPERED.

And then her wonder at all she saw! On this theme I could write a sequel to this history. It had been strange enough stepping from civilization into the middle ages, but out of the middle ages we have read in books. What must it have been for one leaping from the middle ages to civilization? There were no books to help Darla.

"But the sequel will not be written, I fancy. It could only be humorous, and even were I capable of writing such a history, with a smile in every line of it, I should not do so. I could not have my little wife laughed at. I have laughed at her myself sometimes, it is true. I did when she saw her first train steaming into a station, but then I am a privileged person.

Of O'Ryan I have seen little since we parted with him in London. Twice only, I think, has he been to visit us, and he is the only one who persists in addressing Darla as "your highness." He has not forgotten Drusseniand.

Nor have we quite. It was a fancy of Darla's, and I humored her. In my library hangs a picture of myself clad in armor, which I had to borrow from a costumer for the occasion, and underneath is a little tablet fixed into the bottom of the frame. Some day the reader and I may become acquainted, and I will show it to him. And the legend on the tablet runs thus: "Sir Verrall, Knight of the Silver Star."

The Late Edward Fenwick.

The funeral of the late Mr. Edward Fenwick, which took place on Sunday, June 3rd, was largely attended. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Masonic brethren attended in a body. The church service was conducted by Rev. H. A. Bunt, pastor of the United church, Enterprise, at which the deceased was an official for many years. Interment took place in Riverside cemetery, Napanee.

Nearly Asphyxiated.

Mr. W. S. Holmes, manager of the Odessa branch of the Royal Bank, who is well-known in Napanee, had a close call on Wednesday of last week. He was doing some work around his car in his garage with the engine running. The door of the garage was open but the light breeze blowing in the door apparently held the carbon monoxide gas inside the garage and but for the prompt assistance rendered by Mrs. Poope, who is a trained nurse, the occurrence might have ended fatally. Mrs. Poope was working in the garden and noticed Mr. Holmes collapse. Mr. Holmes was taken to the home of Dr. A. J. Mabee and is making good progress toward recovery.

Graham—Brant.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon, June 2nd, in St. Alban's Church, Odessa, when Miss Estella Madeline Graham, daughter of the late Thomas Goodwin Graham, and Mrs. Graham, and William Arthur Brant barrister and solicitor son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brant, Toronto, were united by the pastor, Rev. W. G. Swayne. The bride was given in marriage by her youngest brother, Mr. Roy Graham, and looked lovely in a dress of white silk with an overdress of white silk georgette crepe, and a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and roses. During the signing of the register, Miss Gwendolyn Swayne sang very sweetly, "Oh, Perfect Love." After the ceremony a delicious buffet lunch was served at the bride's home on Church St., to forty relatives and friends. The happy couple left for a motor trip for a few days before settling in their Toronto home, where the groom is practising his profession. The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mr. W. Brant, the groom's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Ainsley, Toronto; and Mrs. Edith Matthews, Rochester, a sister of the bride. The many beautiful gifts, consisting of silver, fine china, and money, told of the esteem in which the bride and groom are held.

St. Andrews' W. M. S.

On Friday afternoon a large audience greeted Mrs. (Rev) Anderson, of Newburgh, who, in her capacity as Vice-President of the Belleville Presbyterial, came to visit and encourage us in our missionary endeavors. She has the supervision of 15 auxiliaries—this section. Her address was most interesting and inspiring. Officers of organizations are important, but the success of our missionary work depends on the zeal of each individual member. She based her remarks on three phrases-Love Christ, Live Christ, Give Christ—and by her earnest words and illustrations gave us a vision of what our heritage and responsibility is, and what a privilege is ours to know Christ and like Him, to love and serve others. The President, Mrs. Laughland, gave some extracts on The Habit of Prayer, which in this age of hurry, is being neglected. Miss Harrison and Mrs. Thomson conducted the opening devotional exercises. Mrs. Corkill read an interesting account of the Missionary Conference held during Easter in Jerusalem. Mrs. Laughland sang a beautiful solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say." The collection was taken by Mrs. Mabel Kelly and Mrs. Gilbride offered the dedicatory prayer. The closing prayer was taken by Miss Lillith Gandier. After the meeting a pleasant social hour was spent, Mrs. McCaul and Miss Alice Presting being the tea hotesses.

Wagar—Jackson.

A quiet weddingtook place at the United Church parsonage, Enterprise, on Wednesday, June 6th, at 9.30 a.m., when Miss Nellie Wagar was united in marriage to Mr. Milo Jackson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Jackson. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives by Rev. H. A. Bunt, B.A., pastor of Enterprise church, after which the young couple left on a motor trip. Upon their return they will reside on a farm near Enterprise. The good wishes of the whole community will follow them into their new home.

Allen—Coulter.

St. Paul's Church, Roslin, beautifully decorated with lilacs and spring flowers, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday morning, June 2nd, at 10 o'clock, when Florence Adelaide Coulter, neice of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Coulter of Roslin, was united to Harvey Clare Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Allen, of Marlbank. The Rev. A. E. Smart, rector of St. John's church, Portsmouth, officiated, assisted by Rev. Arthur Smith rector of Roslin. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, looked lovely in her dress of blue crepe, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of tea roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Beatrice Allen, sister of the groom, who was prettily attired in mauve crepe with hat to match, while the groom was attended by Mr. Wellesley Coulter, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Coulter. A beautiful larray of presents evidenced the high esteem in which the young couple are held by their many friends, who wish them many years of happiness and prosperity. Mr. and Mrs. Allen left during the afternoon on a trip to the Pacific Coast.

POULTRY BREEDING

THE X-RAY, REGISTRATION AND R.O.P.

"New and improved species of chicken will, in the near future," according to Dr. W. H. Deiffenbach of the Flower Hospital, New York, "be produced by the treatment of fertile eggs with the X-Ray." He claims to have produced a definite deviation from the normal sex ration in the chickens hatched from X-ray eggs, this resulting in a greater percentage of female chicks.

This is quoted from a New York despatch without comment, but it necessarily reminds us of Canada's two great poultry breeding policies viz., Registration and Record of Performance.

Canada is the only country admitting the hen to National Live Stock Records. This is done through the Registration policy, and consists of the making of official qualifying records under Government supervision through the medium of Egg Laying Contests conducted on the Dominion Experimental Farms.

The qualifying records under the Record of Performance policy are made on the breeders' own plant, which is under constant government inspection. The policy is administered by the Dominion Live Stock Branch.

Both policies are to encourage pedigree breeding of poultry for production, and to originate a source of supply of male birds of known ancestry. The use of such males will be one of the great factors in Canadian poultry development, increasing as it must the average flock production, and as a result increasing the revenue and making even more profitable an already prosperous industry.

Pedigree breeding is the surest, safest and sanest way to develop the poultry industry.

"EASY MONEY."

The Community Players of Napanee, having completed rehearsals on their newest comedy, "Easy Money," are to give their performance last Thursday night in Enterprise. As is usual, when this talented group of players appear anywhere, a crowded house greeted the opening curtain, and all the audience seemed to be unanimous in praising it as the best comedy offering ever given in the Community Hall there.

"Easy Money," is a completely different type of performance from the Community Players' last offering, "Sliciana." The old show was somewhat on the slapstick order, while the new one depends for its laughs on the clever lines, the comic situations and the complicated plot, as well as on the ability of the players. The production is a modern up-to-date play, and costumes, songs and music are all right up to the minute.

Two new players have joined the company, in the persons of Mr. Bernard Napolis and Mr. Reginald Wiseman. Although Mr. Napolis is more or less of a newcomer to local theatrical circles, he displays marked ability in his character portrayal as the worried business man, the longest and most difficult part in the play. Mr. Wiseman, of course, has been seen in many stages in Canada and the U.S.A., but most of his appearances have been as a baritone soloist. In "Easy Money," Mr. Wiseman shows that he has not only one of the finest voices to be heard today from the concert stage, but also histrionic talent in no little quantity. The Community Players are indeed fortunate to obtain the services of such high class talent.

Most of the members of the "Sticklers" each have parts in "Easy Money." Miss Mary McGrath and Miss Dorothy Scott appear again, in parts well suited to them, and perfectly played. Mr. Joseph Marshall and Mr. Gerald Gleeson are inexpressibly comic, and Mr. Grant Paul has made another great hit. Miss Katherine Powell has this time taken a smaller part, in order to devote her energies to the direction of the play, and her expert guiding hand is everywhere apparent.

Several new musical numbers are inserted with good effect. Mr. Wiseman sings "Hindu Man," specially written for the show, and his fine duet with Miss McGrath, "The One I'm Looking For," has such a delightfully catchy air that it will be long remembered by all its hearers. Messrs. Marshall, Wiseman and Paul also have a new number, written by them for "Easy Money" which is very well done. Mr. Napolis and Mrs. Powell close the performance with a beautiful waltz-song, "Perfect Love."

"Easy Money" will be produced at Centreville and Bath during the next month and will be its first local appearance in Wonderland Theatre on Thursday, June 21st.

ENGINE OIL WEARS OUT

BY ERWIN GREER

(President Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

What becomes of the oil in the automobile engine?

Many motorists often stop to ponder the question of what becomes of the oil consumed by the automobile engine. It is only recently that the engineers have discovered.

They have known that the average motor car requires a quart of oil for every 75 to 200 miles—depending upon the mechanical condition of the engine. Many an engine, however, seems never to use any oil at all, but actually to manufacture it. A long series of laboratory experiments were required to determine what happens. They were undertaken because the lubrication of the automobile is the most important point in its operation.

The engineers found that the greatest consumption of oil is due to evaporation. Just as water in a tea kettle goes off as steam so does oil, when subjected to the terrific heat of the engine, go off in vapor. The heavier or more highly refined the oil, the less is lost in this way. The answer is not to use heavy oil, because this would cause great friction in the oil itself, but in changes in manufacturing processes which are necessary to reduce evaporation.

The second great loss is due to oil "wearing out." The heat of the engine turns part of the oil into black sediment which has no lubricating value and which prevent the remaining good oil from protecting the fast moving parts. This is the greatest danger in oil. After 500 miles of running many oils so "wear out" that half their bulk becomes sediment. This causes engine trouble such as burned out bearings, scored cylinders, rapid carbonization.

Still a third loss is due to the fact that a part of the oil put in the engine goes to form carbon in the cylinders. An infinitesimal proportion, carried up by the pistons, is always left in the combustion chamber where the explosion burns it off. Most of this burned oil leaves the engine via the exhaust.

Whenever a car smokes badly it means that oil of the wrong body is passing the piston rings, or that the engine is mechanically imperfect or that poor oil is being used. Other losses are due to leakage and are readily prevented.

CANADIAN WOMEN'S WORK

BY LUCINDA.

Very real pleasure is felt in the chapters of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire at the election of Mrs. J. A. Stewart, of Perth as National President. Women, not only members of the I.O.D.E., but workers in other societies, know her for a clever, capable woman, a wise leader and is in touch and feel that she is happy choice to succeed Miss R. M. Church, a sister of Thomas Church, M.P., and ex-Mayor of Toronto, who for three years has held the reins of office as National President of the very important women's society know nas the I.O.D.E. There is another point in the election of Mrs. Stewart. She is a woman resident of a small town and brings to her leadership the knowledge of the splendid work that is being done by the women in the small towns of Canada and also a knowledge of their outlook and viewpoint. The other women working in the societies will no longer feel that the opinion of the members of their organizations in the larger centres will, by their numbers, carry the day in the matters brought before the national meetings. The president o fone large woman's society at least, is one of them. At the same time as the I.O.D.E. met in Toronto, the National Council of Women was in session. The I.O.D.E. is one of the nationally affiliated societies of the National Council and their last session was a joint one. The first vice-president of the National Council is a woman from a small city, Mrs. Frederick Etherington, president of the Kingston Local Council of Women, who is convener of the committee that will raise a foundation fund of $200,000 for travelling expenses and other necessary work to further the interests of the National Council. Mr. Etherington, always most generous, has covered the initial expenses of the campaign herself.

In June we begin to want pretty summer frocks. The cold, late spring has made us hesitate to buy them, but we will need them soon now for the June garden parties and the strawberry festivals. Girls who are serving at these gaieties look charming in gay frocks, but it is well to wear one made of the many pretty wash fabrics, for a cup of tea or a dish of icecream may fall on a pretty fresh frock and destroy it if it cannot be washed. Simplicity is the fashion note among this year for the wash frocks of crepe, cotton or silk, the fugi silk or the tailored cloth. It is only the evening or afternoon dress dresses that are frilled and trimmed with lace. But there is no doubt there is a more feminine line to all dresses and no one who considers herself a close follower of Dame fashion will wear a dress that does not cover the knee entirely and it can be quite long for formal occasions.

"Eat liver," say the doctors. Twice a day if your blood needs just what the liver of the calf supplies. Hundreds of people are doing it and the price has soared in consequence. I cannot tell you if liver is good for your particular trouble, but ask your doctor and I don't think it can harm you anyway. While many of us like liver and bacon well-cooked, it is apt to pall, especially the liver if you can't have the bacon. We heard of one grown man in a hospital who got so tired of his daily fare of liver that he hid it and pretended he had eaten it. As it happened, the doctor grew suspicious and he was caught and his medical man stood over him while he finished the last morsel.

"May I go to the camp ?" is the question on the lips of hundreds of boys and girls just now, for camps are being organized all over the continent. If the camp is in good air, where the food is good and the work and play well divided, "Lucinda" stayed for a week at a boys' camp in Maine and saw the sickly little chap, who was let eat just what he fancied at home, grow stronger and ready to eat everything and enjoy it. The counsellors were nice boys from Harvard or Yale and one was a Canadian from the Royal Military College. They allowed no big boy to bully a little one and they saw that everyone had fair play.

A very interesting letter has come to us from Leeds, A lady who says she has been reading this column for some months, is in sympathy with the idea of developing a home industry that will make money for the women of the country and at the same time provide articles that will attract the tourists to us. She is a church worker and says that in motoring around the country she has seen some well-made hooked rugs and patchwork quilts, the old patterns so much sought for being used. She says that she has seen even better work in the country to the north. We feel she means Lanark, for she once lived there. She has a charming home where she gives tea to travellers, and very good tea, daintily served (we know because she gave us some) and she says she would be willing to take such things as rugs and quilts into her house and sell them with a small percentage on the price for her trouble. If any of our readers wish to inquire farther, if they send a letter in the papers in which they read this, addressed to "Lucinda," and giving their name and address, we will put them in touch with the lady herself and she will give them full particulars.

Talking of liver, this is one way of cooking it. You can use beef liver for this dish, which sounds appetizing. Two cups of chopped liver, put into a double boiler with four tablespoons of butter. When hot add two tablespoons of flour mixed smoothly in a cup of milk and season with salt and red or black pepper. Mix all these ingredients thoroughly and add two hard boiled eggs, the whites cut up and the yolks mashed smoothly in three tablespoons of milk. Cook until it becomes slightly thick and serve hot. This is enough for four people. Try it.

First Military Band.

British military music had its origin in the Grenadier Guards. The first band was raised by them in 1685. The Grenadiers' name dates from the most costly uniform in the army. It consists of a ruby velvet coat lavishly decorated with gold lace, a velvet cap, and white gaiters buttoning to the knees.

HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

FLIES.

Insects play an important part in the spread of disease. Typhus fever which was also known as Jail or Ship fever is spread by the body louse and has disappeared as a result of greater personal cleanliness. Yellow fever and Malaria are spread by certain kinds of mosquitoes.

In Canada, our chief insect problem, from the standpoint of disease amongst human beings, is the common house fly. Because the fly is covered with minute hairs, and because of its habit of lighting and feeding on all sorts of filth, the fly carries and transfers filth from one place toanother

Flies feed on anything, including body waste and secretions. When they light on such matter, it sticks to them and they carry it to their next point of rest, which may be the milk-jug, the sugar-bowl, or the food on the table. If the filth in which they have been contained disease germs, they carry these along with the filth.

They feeds by sucking up the food. If the food is dry, the insect discharges fluid from its stomach to moisten it, and thus it passes out some of the filth it has previously fed upon to whatever it now seeks to eat.

Flies breed in any collection of waste organic matter, such as garbage, but preferably on horse manure. Such breeding should be prevented by proper covers and regular removal. Outside privies should be screened to prevent entrance of flies. Houses should be screened. Flie should never be allowed to light on the baby or his food ; they are frequently responsible for the spread of summer diarrhoea.

Flies are really dangerous. They do spread disease and so, should be destroyed.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

The three-act comedy "Easy Money," by Napanee talent, in Sillsville Town Hall Tuesday evening, June 19th. 29-a (Jesus said) I am the door : by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shal igo in and out and find pasture The thief cometh not, but for to steal and to kill, and to destroy : I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. I am the Good Shepherd ; the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. But he that is an hireling and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming and leaveth the sheep and fleeth : and the wolf catcheth them and scattereth the sheep. I am the Good Shepherd and know my sheep, and I am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father : And I lay down my life for the sheep."

John 10 : 9-15

How strong and sweet my Father's care,
That about me, like the air,
Is with me always, everywhere.
He cares for me

"QUEST FOR GRASS."

Plant Explorers Returned With 160 Grasses and Forage Plants

After nine months absence on a "quest for grass" L. W. Kephart and R. L. Piemeisel, plant explorers of the United States Department of Agriculture, returned recently from Africa with more than 160 lots of seed of different grasses and forage plants and 400 specimens of other plant life. While past experience leads the Department to hope for some valuable addition to the pasture and meadow forage of the United States as a result of this expedition, no definite value can be assigned to any of the new material until it has been thoroughly tested under new conditions of soil and climate.

New grasses to lengthen the season of green pastures and meadows, both in the south and the north, would be a big factor in reducing the cost of raising live stock. With this objective in mind the two grass hunters tramped more than 300 miles through the highlands of Kenya and Tanganyika, formerly known as British East Africa and German East Africa, collecting seed of every promising plant. Their collection amounts to perhaps 75 per cent. of the forage grasses of the region.

Betrayed by Their Hair.

Modern Sherlock Holmes can tell the race and sex of an individual with only a few hairs from the head as clues. This novel method of identification is based on the comparative weight of human hairs.

Ten pieces of hair, two inches long, from the heads of people of different races were weighed on delicate balances. It was found that the Chinese and Japanese have the heaviest hair —sixty per cent. heavier than that of the white races. The hair of white races is sixty per cent. heavier than that of Negroes, while men's locks are eighteen per cent. heavier than those of women.
